

PRIVACY POLICY

At Prosper Law, we take the protection of data and privacy seriously and hold the safeguarding of our clients and business partners' information in the highest regard. Prosper Law complies with the Privacy Principles contained in the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth).

This privacy policy describes how we collect, use and dispose of personal information.

The information Prosper Law collects: Prosper Law collects information which may identify you as an individual including your name, address, email address and telephone number.

How Prosper Law collects the information: Prosper Law collects information when you complete forms on our website, contact us by phone or by email. Prosper Law's website also uses cookies which may store personal information that you provide to track user patterns. Prosper Law will carefully store the information you provide.

Why Prosper Law collects the information: Prosper Law may collect your information for the purpose of providing legal services to its clients, to answer questions, to comply with law, to provide information and to communicate with you.

When Prosper Law discloses the information: Prosper Law may disclose your information to provide you with legal services, to conduct searches for the purpose of providing you with legal services and to third parties where you have consented to the disclosure or to whom we are authorised or required to do so by law.

The rights you have in relation to your information: You have the right to access request the correction of your personal information.

How you can make a complaint / contact Prosper Law: Contact Prosper Law's Legal Principal, Farrah Motley on 0422 721 121 or farrah@prosperlaw.com.au